Transportation System Plan Update and Transit Development Plan Underway

CORVALLIS – If you have thoughts about getting around in Corvallis, now's the perfect time to voice your opinion. The City is beginning a project to update the Transportation System Plan (TSP), a long-range document that guides the expansion and maintenance of our transportation network for all modes of travel over the next 20 years. In conjunction, the City will develop a Transit Development Plan (TDP), which will inform investment in the Corvallis public transportation system.

“We're very excited about this opportunity to work with our residents and businesses to plan the future of bicycle, pedestrian, vehicle, freight, and transit systems in Corvallis. I invite everyone to join us at the project meetings and help us plan for a safe, functional transportation system,” said Robyn Bassett, Public Works Project Manager. The project will include extensive public outreach and technical work to plan for Corvallis' needs over the next 20 years. Final recommendations on the TSP will go to the City Council for adoption and implementation in late 2017.

There are lots of ways you can get involved in the process:

- Visit the project website (www.CorvallisTSP.org) to comment on transportation issues 24/7, participate in online open houses, and join the email list. You can also find information about upcoming events, planning efforts and documents, and related topics.

- Join us at an open house or topic-specific work groups. Look for upcoming meetings to be scheduled this year.
- Invite the project team to present to your community or business group.
- Attend a project Steering Committee Meeting and provide public comment.
- Follow the project on Twitter @CorvallisTSP or Facebook www.facebook.com/tspcorvallis.
